

Psychomotoric Movement: Observation in Hippotherapy

Text: Barbara Kluwer

At the beginning of this paper I would like to single out some psychomotoric elements of Therapeutic Riding. Following this I will present some support aims of the psychomotoric therapy. In this way I will finally come to the presentation of the observation sheet, which I developed for movement control in the Hippotherapy. Psychomotoric as a general term, means wholesome development including neurological, sensorial and psychosocial development, connected with learning of motoric skills.
